
Council's top brass do their bit for charity

Epsom and Ewell's leading citizens turned out on Saturday to help raise funds for Epsom and Ewell Citizens Advice Bureau (CAB).

Epsom mayor, Councillor Jan Mason, and her consort Alan were joined by the deputy mayor and mayoress Councillor Alan Winkworth and his wife Vanessa collecting in Epsom town centre.

Passersby were surprised to see the chains of office being worn by the collectors, and dug deep into their pockets to raise more than £700 for the cause.

Collectors included Chris

Grayling MP, CAB staff, councillors and other supporters, with collections taking place at Homebase in Ewell and the Rainbow Centre, as well as Epsom High Street.

Councillor Eber Kington, chairman of the CAB fundraising committee said:

"At this time of economic hardship the call on the CAB's free and confidential advice is greater than ever and we really appreciate their contribution."
